Taylor

As director of operations with the nascent Englewood Construction, an enterprise he helped found in 2004, Chuck Taylor cold-called American Girl and pursued the retailer for a full year until Englewood was hired to build out its Michigan Avenue store in Chicago. In 2011, insurer State Farm cold-called Englewood to execute a new retail concept partially on the strength of Englewood's strong online presence, much of which was programmed by Taylor. Taylor is co-author of Hard Hat Chat, a blog focused almost exclusively on commercial construction. He also was instrumental in the recent launch of Englewood's new YouTube video channel, which is also known as Hard Hat Chat.
