Englewood Construction Launches Hard Hat Chat Blog and YouTube Channel

General contractor shares advice, provides tips for commercial real estate developers

CHICAGO – To help commercial real estate developers solve construction issues and build the most successful project they can, Englewood Construction, www.engagewoodconstruction.com, has launched a blog, and YouTube channel, both called Hard Hat Chat. Based in Schiller Park, Ill., Englewood Construction is a national general contractor specializing in commercial construction.

The Hard Hat Chat blog and YouTube channel are primarily geared for commercial developers but provide content relevant to all parties involved in commercial construction.

“These are difficult times for the commercial real estate industry, particularly for developers,” said William DiSanto, president of Englewood Construction. “There is a lot of hesitancy and confusion out there about when, where and why they should build a new project or renovate an existing one in this economic climate.

“We saw a real need for some honest information, sound advice and value-based news on how to build a successful development and solve construction issues, so we created the blog and video channel to help educate everyone,” continued DiSanto.

Current blog topics range from “How Developers Can Decrease Operating Costs by Thousands of Dollars” to “What a Chicago 2016 Summer Olympics Means for Chicago’s Retail and Restaurant Construction Industry,” while one video raises the question, “How Financially Secure Are Your Vendors?”

“I’ve always felt that having a dialogue was the best way to improve my knowledge base and in turn have a successful business,” said DiSanto. “We hope the blog and videos help anyone who has an interest in commercial construction learn something new and connect with others in the industry.

“Our team has worked in commercial construction for more than 30 years and built projects all over the country, including iconic locations like The Magnificent Mile and Fifth Avenue. I like to think we have some good case studies to share and tips we’ve picked up along the way,” he continued.

In addition to its blog, commercialconstructionblog.com and YouTube channel, youtube.com/user/hardhatchat, Englewood Construction also launched a new website, englewoodconstruction.com and can now be followed on Twitter at twitter.com/Hardhatchat.
